

Please do not mandate a broadcast bit to be placed in my consumer electronics. Doing this will require me to buy inferior and costly electronics...(Which I and millions of others won't do), limit my fair use rights and allow a massive industry with unprecedented political power to further control what comes into my home.

Government has already given broadcasters broad monopolistic powers through acts such as the draconian SHVA rules and other laws and FCC rulings. Other businesses do not enjoy such monopolistic powers over their customers. In my opinion, neither should broadcasters.

Please allow the market place work in an open fashion so that over time, capable technologies will evolve that will protect fair use and allow the industry to evolve into this new technical age.
